GARDNER HEARS OF ALLEGED GAME OF POLITICAL ENEMIES. QUIGG REPEATS CHARGES OF COLONIZING TO BEAT MAZET.

THE ROOSEVELT GRAND JURY.

Cleaves His Books of Gambling Cases, Which It Is Rumored the Special Tribunal Had Meant to Investigate.

McCullagh Finds Two Cases of Illegal Registration in Mazet's District, and Is Looking Up All Thirty-Day Voters.

Fight to Keep Unpaid Hospital Employes from Voting to Be Kept Up in Spite of the Bookstaver Decision.

District-Attorney Gardner executed a flank movement of more than ordinary pretensions yesterday when he submitted to the present Grand Jury a list of persons arrested for maintaining gambling houses.

In this way it is alleged the District-Attorney may get ahead of the Roosevelt Grand Jury, which it is rumored will not content itself with election cases, but dive into the gambling and pool rooms which Mr. Quigg says yields patronage to Tammany Hall.

The presentation of these gambling cases brought eleven indictments last evening. These were the names of the men involved: William Vanderbilt, Samuel J. Johnson, James Walsh and Mark Cohen, of No. 1549 Broadway; Michael Fitzgerald, Patrick Donagan and James Watson, of No. 1584 Broadway; Edward Zimmerman, of No. 23 Third avenue; John Bittner, of No. 31 Third avenue, and David Sullivan and Charles Brown, of No. 508 Sixth avenue.

Superintendent McCullagh still continues to look wise when the subject of colonization in the Mazet district is broached to him. He will not say much.

"We know there are a couple of men who registered there who live outside the district, don't we?" he said last night. "And I'll say this: They are not the only ones who came from below, nor from north of the boundaries of the Nineteenth and registered there. There is nothing to prove that the men who registered are the ones who it is intended shall vote. They can get repeaters for that from the lower part of the city."

"Thirty day voters will find their records in our hands when they come to the polls. That is all I can say."

Besides the arrests which Superintendent McCullagh's men made yesterday the Chief gave notice to Superintendent O'Rourke, of Bellevue Hospital, to appear before him and bring with him his roll of those receiving pay for their services at Bellevue, the superintendent's appointment book and also the roll of unpaid employes.

Superintendent O'Rourke's bailiwick is in the Twentieth Assembly District. He has charge of all the city lodging houses. Last year McCullagh kept many of the men in these houses from voting, on the ground that they were repeaters. This year, as a result of Justice Bookstaver's decision that a man who works for his board is entitled to vote, these men expect to vote.

McCullagh thinks differently, and expects to challenge unpaid laborers. McCullagh said that he had subpoenaed the Superintendent, because the latter had refused to allow one of his deputy superintendents to examine the books of the hospital in Mr. O'Rourke's charge.

John Durkin was brought before Magistrate Denen in the Centre Street Police Court yesterday and held in $1,000 bail for the charge of illegal registration. He confessed that he had on the same day—October 13—registered in two districts, the Second and the Sixth. Durkin took $800 as his residence for the Sixth in the morning and in the afternoon was from 87 Baxter street and registered in the Second.

The case of John J. McGinniss, proprietor of the Wald Hotel, was adjourned in the Centre Street Police Court until this afternoon. McGinniss is charged with violating the Election law in refusing to furnish the required information to McCullagh to the reason who lived in his hotel.

Joseph H. Roberts, of 212 East Ninety-seventh street, was held in $1,000 bail for trial for illegal registration. He admitted he had served a term in the Kings County Penitentiary for assault in the second degree. Roberts said that he did not want to do any more. Some one had told him that he did not prevent his voting and he had acted on the advice.

When the judges of the Court of Special Sessions in Brooklyn had spent some two hours on the case of John Sweeney, a one-legged man, who had registered from the City Mission Lodge, House, No. 14 Tillary street, they suddenly came to the conclusion they were outside their jurisdiction. Misdemeanors is the limit of the Court of Special Sessions. The crime of fraudulent registration is a felony punishable with five years' imprisonment or $500 fine or both.

In this quandary the prisoner's lawyer wanted him freed, as he couldn't be put in jeopardy twice for the same offence. Some of the judges agreed with him. The majority, however, ordered that the papers and the testimony taken be sent to the Court of Special Sessions. The crime of fraudulent registration is a felony punishable with five years' imprisonment or $500 fine or both.

Sweeney's lawyer will appeal today to one of the judges of the Court of Special Sessions for a writ of habeas corpus.

Scilly Charges Fraud in Twelfth. City Clerk P. J. Scilly leader of the twelfth Assembly District, says 670 Socialists have been registered there illegally. These men, Mr. Scilly says, got their papers in the United States City Hall and many of them have not been in the country two years. It is said the men have been fraudulently registered in order to get votes, as they are running on the Socialist ticket.

Crocker Makes the "Address" Hot. Mr. Crocker found more fault last night with the address to voters which is to be given out shortly by Tammany Hall. It was changed with a view to getting added voters. It has grown warmer with the last half dozen changes. The prospect for something really hot, becomes brighter every day.

If Lincoln Were Alive To-Day. WILLIAM JENNGS BRYAN has written for the Sunday Journal Editorial Section which appears October 29 a brilliant and thoughtful article wherein he applies to modern conditions in the Republican party the views and cardinal principles of Abraham Lincoln.

Declares Pool Room Employes Are "Herded" in the Nineteenth. Gives MR. CROCKER A TIP. Republicans Hope to Capture Three Districts Now Held by Tammany.

In the controversy between Mr. Crocker and Mr. Quigg relative to the campaign in the Nineteenth or Mazet district it became Quigg's turn to speak yesterday. He said that every "thirty-day" voter in Mazet's district who has registered will be arrested the minute he attempts to cast his ballot. He also ridiculed Mr. Crocker's claim of victory in every Assembly District in the city, adding that the Republicans and their allies would take the Fifteenth, Twentieth and thirty-third from Tammany Hall.

When these words were brought to the attention of Mr. Crocker and he was asked for a reply he said petulantly: "Oh, no. How can I have time to notice anything uttered by that little lap-dog Quigg?" About the situation in the Nineteenth Mr. Quigg said:

"The association established by police court testimony between McGurk's dive and the Citizens' Union of the Nineteenth Assembly District must be extremely galling to the respectable gentlemen who have lent their names to the support of Mr. Stewart's candidacy.

"McGurk, it appears, has a bouncer, a 'gentleman' who wears a scarlet shirt and spectacles and who divides his time between McGurk's and Flynn's. McGurk's bouncer, when arrested, gave his name as Moon. His real name is Sullivan. He has a history. When he was searched, numerous slips of paper were found on him, giving a name and an address in the Nineteenth Assembly District, and the significant marking, 'thirty days.'

VOICES OF THE SPELLBINDERS IN A CAMPAIGN TO CATCH VOTES.

THE wear and tear of a political campaign is felt keenly by none more than by the spellbinders—the gentlemen who give their leathern voices to their party's cause as they struggle with the elements and endure the vicissitudes incident to their exciting calling. There is an army of 115 of these patriots in Tammany Hall alone this fall. Some of them are recruits, while others have won their spurs on hard talked fields.

Among the industries that these men foster is that of the lively stable keeper. Most people desire horses with some kind of style. Spellbinders, however, want the dearest possible live ones. An animal with spirit is a nightmare to them, black as ever was palated by a late hot supper.

As a matter of fact—and not for publication—spellbinders say individually that they infinitely prefer as a rostrum from which to deliver their gems of rhetoric and sparking thought the quiet and secure head of an upturned barrel. This has many advantages over the tailboard of a truck.

A man, they say, cannot do himself justice when he has grave doubts as to his footing. A thoughtless horse—a sudden jerk—and they lucky is the spellbinder who escapes with an anti-climax merely. This explains why lively stable keepers at this time of the year make a point of stocking up with the most hopeless, helpless, worst lot of broken-down horse supply that can be found.

Spellbinders are strong men physically. Their calling demands strength of mind, body and voice. It is a sad commentary on the lustre and lustle of our Western life and civilization to compare the ordinary spellbinder before and after election. He makes a perfect "before-and-after" picture, with this important difference—that when he has taken a two weeks' course of his own medicine he has fallen from the picture of health to the decrepit state of an old man. It is pitiable to see this strong man broken down; but it's necessary. Doubtless it is a just punishment on some for the sufferings they have entailed on their auditors.

If spellbinders, however, love dead horses they must be mighty careful of the living issues they present. A man who would preach an open Sunday and a liberal excuse day in the Murray Hill section would probably—if not muzzled—insist before the supporters of Senator Till Sullivan on doing the powers and the pay of McCullagh's deputies.

McMANUS'S ARREST NOT "INSPIRED." PURROY MEN JOIN WANTED MAJOR DICK FUSION FORCES. WANTED INTO COURT CIVIL SERVICE LEAGUE ASKS THAT HE BE PROSECUTED.

Mrs. Milne, His Accuser, Decide to Aid in the Fight Against Tammany This Fall. Civil Service League Asks That He Be Prosecuted.

The accusation made by the Republicans of the Fifteenth Assembly District that the arrest of Thomas J. McManus on Tuesday night was inspired by the Tammany organization was effectively refuted yesterday by Mrs. Frances E. Milne, who caused the arrest.

McManus is one of the "McManus Clan" of the district, who have fought Tammany Hall energetically for years. Mrs. Milne alleges that Mr. McManus owes her money, obtained by fraudulent representations in a business deal. After the arrest it was charged that Senator Pinkitt, the Tammany leader, was behind it.

As a matter of fact Senator Pinkitt does not know Mrs. Milne. Mrs. Milne, of her own volition, made an affidavit yesterday, a copy of which has been furnished the press. She denies that Senator Pinkitt or the Tammany organization had anything to do with causing the arrest of McManus, asserting that she does not know Senator Pinkitt, and says she would have had McManus arrested long ago had he not held her off with profuse promises to reimburse her.

Under Sheriff Mulvaney said yesterday that there was no political significance in McManus's arrest.

"If there had been," he said, "I would not have got out of bed late last night, gone to the Sheriff's box with Mr. McManus and worked until after midnight to arrange bail for him."

Bail for an Alleged Kidnapper. Newburg, N. Y., Oct. 25.—Frederick J. Frazier, who was arrested on the charge of kidnapping his son from the custody of his mother in Vermont, has been admitted to bail pending appearance before Governor Roosevelt to contest the granting of extradition papers.

Brooklyn Brevities. Salvador Bazzano, a jeweler, living at No. 152 Stone avenue, Brooklyn, may have to answer a charge of murder. He was charged with the murder of a man named Pietro Richard, quarrelled in the Italian section. Richard, a victim of a drunken brawl, was killed by a vicious kick and was killed by a vicious kick and was killed by a vicious kick.

First Sergeant George U. Haywood, of the battle ship Indiana, lying at the Brooklyn Navy Yard, had a fatal encounter aboard ship late Tuesday night with Private Williams, of the same ship. Williams grabbed a bayonet and made a lunge at the sergeant, doing him damage. Williams is now locked up in the ship's store.

No one called at the rooms of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, in Brooklyn, yesterday, to claim the black-eyed five-year-old lad who has been at the shelter now seven days, and who is a mystery.

The dead body of Luis A. Meyer, of the firm of Striller, Meyer & Julius, of Nos. 2 and 3 Stone street, was found in the basement of his home, No. 318 Sixth avenue, Borough of Brooklyn, by a parent that Mr. Meyer had fallen over the railing while ascending the steps of his residence. His neck was broken. He was an epileptic.

Addison W. Hallock and Alfred C. Osterlander, of Brooklyn, were arrested yesterday, charged with violating the Election law in having certified to false acknowledgments in a petition for independent nomination in the Eleventh Assembly District. They were held for examination.

MR. CROKER HEARS CHEERING REPORTS SIGNOR GALANTE HAS A DEBATE ON.

Leaders Assure Him Tammany Can Carry Every District. Challenges Ellis, the Republican, to Talk Over Issues.

COUNTY TICKET SAFE. MASS MEETING FRIDAY. Chief Warns Lieutenants to Be on the Lookout for a Mazet Committee "Roorback."

Wolff's Auditorium Will Be the Scene of the Greatest Time Grand Street Ever Saw.

"Republican apathy and disgust," and "Democratic enthusiasm and activity," were the reports Richard Crocker heard from every one of his district leaders when they gathered at the Tammany Hall Executive Committee meeting last evening.

If the figures furnished are to be relied on, Mr. Crocker is justified in claiming that every one of the thirty-five districts in the county will be carried by the Democrats.

Predictions were freely made that the county ticket would be elected by from forty to fifty thousand plurality. Every leader bore testimony that wherever there has been a loss in registration the Republican loss is heavier than the Democratic.

Mr. Crocker was much pleased with the figures submitted, and made his deputies a little speech. This is what he said:

"The reports you have presented are very gratifying to me and they certainly will be to the Democracy of the city and State. I see by the newspapers that the Republican Campaign Committee—the Mazet Committee—is going to meet again next week. No doubt their purpose is to deceive the people again."

"I understand they propose to give some excuse for a scandalous exhibition just before election in the hope of affecting the vote November 7. They may succeed in getting some disreputable persons to swear to some outrages. Of course, they will try to put the Tammany Hall organization in a false light before the people."

"They will try to divert the attention of the people from their own evil acts and from the fact that they are spending thousands of dollars of the people's money for campaign purposes. This they will probably do the day before election. They hope to get up some alleged outrages to spring just before election day so we shall be unable to refute their allegations. I believe the people understand their purpose and will resist it at the polls. I have every confidence in the result November 7."

Keep Order at Their Meetings. Speakers of the Independent Labor party, having met with disturbances at their last meeting, have adopted the policy of going down in the audience and "mixing in" when anybody asks any question. P. J. Daly cleaned out an audience of disturbers in the gas house district two nights ago. He is expected to do the same at the Independent Laborers at Cooper Union next week, at which the leaders of the party will speak.

Seth Low to Aid Fusionists. He will speak at the Citizens' Union mass-meeting in Cooper Union on Saturday night, and at a Republican meeting at the same hall, next Wednesday night.

Manhattan Democracy Busy. The Manhattan Democrats of the Fifth Assembly District, endorsed Mr. Stump, the Tammany candidate for Assembly last night. The organization will cooperate with Tammany against Dr. Henry H. Platt, candidate. Mr. Crocker in speaking at the meeting, said he was going to speak at the Citizens' Union on Friday night in two languages—English and half English.
